Paris is widely regarded as the most exquisite and romantic city on the planet, known for its splendid humanities, art, and unmatched cultural legacy.

However, it is worth noting that Paris also holds the distinction of having the highest GDP in Europe, making it a hub for business and innovation.

Moreover, the city boasts one of the world's swiftest growing high-end real estate markets.

Paris offers something for everyone, and for many, a house is not just a mere structure, but rather a canvas to illustrate the art of living.

Looking from the perspective of a buyer, AAriane offers custom-tailored one-stop real estate solutions, including information and property hunting services. With extensive experience in the local French real estate market, we provide global buyers with the finest real estate valuation and purchase recommendations to avoid potential pitfalls.

In case our current listings do not match the buyer's preferences, our elite AAriane team can provide VIP flat hunting services with a mandate from the buyer.

- We can scour both the market and off-market to locate properties that meet the buyer's specific criteria, based on their interests.
- We take charge of the selection and visitation of the most suitable housing options, saving our clients valuable time and effort.
- We also devote ourselves to price negotiations on the buyer's behalf, striving to secure the best deal possible.

AAriane collaborates with professional bilingual lawyers and notaries to accompany the entire property purchasing process. Our clients do not need to be present on-site (in France) to sign the property purchase contract, as we handle everything with utmost care and attention to detail.

Seller's Agent

Through a blend of market data and professional experience analysis, AAriane accurately prices properties for sale. Our professional marketing team visits the property, stages it, and captures both photos and videos. Our senior copywriters customize a promotional plan to ensure that the listing information is highlighted with the best visual effects and all-encompassing market promotion.

Sellers benefit from the traffic bonus of the AAriane platform, as we create dedicated webpages for each property listed, complete with independent press releases and multi-channel social media exposure. We accurately identify and target potential buyers, increasing the likelihood of a successful sale.

For the sale of large-scale real estate developments, we create customized marketing strategies for developers and implement promotions to maximize exposure.

Our international multilingual team provides services in Chinese, French, English, and Korean, catering to a diverse range of clients.
